THE POPULAR LONG COAT FOR WINTER.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, December 8.—The difficulty of choosing a long coat in order that one may get sufficient use from the one-piece frocks in the closet is not an easy matter that needs only the requisite money and a morning's work. There are many things to be weighed. One's opportunities should govern the whole question. In just what department of life is the coat most needed? Is it for steady service, to be worn in the motor in cold weather over a coat suit, or is it for a velvet or satin visiting frock worn only in the afternoon or to smart noonday functions, or is it for the street over a thin serge or taffeta gown that must serve for several months yet?

If it is for the evening only, that changes the question entirely. But the wise woman in spending a moderate income will find that she can, happily, provide herself with a combination afternoon and evening coat that

Because of this fact a woman must think well before she rushes in to buy a topcoat that will serve only any but the few who follow fashion one number of the hips in the few who follow fashion one number of the hips in the few who follow fashion one number of the hips in the few who follow fashion It can be done, but a combination coat one purpose; she wants to place the money to bolster up the department which needs it most.

A woman who is unusually well dressed explained her process as a simple one in that it was guided entirely by her expected occupations. She went over the list of things she did most frequently, and those she expected to frequently, and those she expected to happen. After she had studied her needs by this process of addition and subtraction she counted her money

HOW THIS MOTHER GOT STRENGTH

Mrs. Eddy Had Only Three in Family, Yet Was So Nervous and Worn Out Could Not Do the Work.

Fair Haven, Vt.—"I was so nervous and run-down that some days I could not do my housework for my family of three. My nerves were very weak and I had pains around my heart. I had doctored for about two years without help. One day a Vinol booklet was left at our door and I decided to try it, and, thanks to Vinol, my health has been restored, so I can do my work once more.

"I have told my neighbors about Vinol and shall always praise it for what it has done for me."—Mrs. James H. Eddy, Fair Haven, Vt.

What Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, did for Mrs. Eddy it will do for every nervous, weak, run-down man or woman in Vinol creates an appetite, re-estab-lishes perfect digestion and makes good, pure blood. In this natural manner it builds up the run-down, weak and debilitated, and replaces weakness with strength.

PLAN FOR CHINESE SHOE WORK

Work for Small Fingers.

BY HELEN HOWE.

The small girl who would like to make mother or elder sister a gift, but whose pocket money is limited, should try her hand at the little Chinese shoe work box shown today. She will surely succeed if she can sew at all and if she will be very careful about the cutting and sewing. This will be one of the novelties launched at holiday time. The beauty of it is the plece bag will probably supply the materials for making, while 25 cents will buy the furnishings.

One must cut two pieces of cardboard, each seven inches long, then shape it into a sole and take off one-quarter inch from the toe of one piece. The larger piece is covered on one side with white muslin and the smaller with a bit of bright silk or satin. Next, a strip of muslin is sewed all around the white covered sole and then this is sewed together you, have a sole half an inch in thickness turning up at the toe, as the Chinaman's shoe does. Fill this with cotton.

The "upper" of the shoe is made from scraps of left-over black satin, embroidered in bright, crude, Chinese colorings, simple or elaborate as one is skilled in such work. The satin should closely: now every one must follow it, or be out of the picture.

If one is not sure what to do with any available peltry, it may be put on the topcoat. This garment demands as much as it can get. It is collared and cuffed with it, has a hem of it, also wide pockets, and, possibly, buttons and a belt that swings around the hips. The sketch shows a blue velvet coat, long enough to nearly cover the gown, which has a long vest, hem, collar and cuffs of long-haired white fur. The vest of fur, by the way, is quite a smart feature of other and shorter coats. It presents another medium for using up pieces that have been left over from seasons that have passed.

wear in many a long day—perhaps for this very reason they have taken hold of feminine imagination, albelt their practical qualities are so admirable.

The regulation sport suit as turned out by the clever tailor takes ten years off woman's age, for it has about it a breezy, knowing air and the very severity of its tailored lines adds to its saucy coquetry. Its skirt is in circular, or ripple cut, swinging clear of the ankle and revealing the foot in its dainty buttoned boot or laced tramping boot quite frankly and at either hip are long, buttoned pockets into which its wearer may thrust her hands, exactly in the manner of her brother or her spouse, for not only the young, unmarried women affect these suits by any means. Ingredients: One-half pound codfish brick, two cups potatoes, mashed; one egg, paprika to taste. Cook and mash potatoes very fine and keep hot. Add cold water to codfish and let simmer till tender; drain in cold water, pick and flake; add the flaked codfish to hot mashed potatoes, season to taste with paprika and beat well with a fork. If too dry, add milk or white of egg and beat well with fork. Shape into round balls, dip in egg and then breadcrumbs and deep fry. Are good warmed over.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

BY LILLIAN E. YOUNG.

Even the mothers who dislike needle work could hardly fail to derive much pleasure in making such a dainty little party frock as the one shown in today's cut, and there is so little actual making in it, anyway-a little gathering at the neck, a couple of seams and a placket to be finished off, and the deed is almost done, except for little touches of trimmings.

and is in the form of a very simple slip. The rounded neck shows a bit of fullness front and back, and the shoulder straps tie over each shoulder with blue ribbons. Both neck and armholes are finished with tiny picot rufflings of net, and the skirt is trimmed with little Watteau rose wreaths applied on the outside and evenly distanced.

Beneath the little slip another is worn, made of chiffon. This is cut with short kimono sleeves that answer as guimpe sleeves to the dress.

The arrangement of materials can be reversed if desired, using chiffon for the overdress and net for the under. Either plan can be followed without a doubt as to a most charming result.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To keep irons from rusting rub with mutton fat and wrap in brown paper before putting away.

When washing ratine do not put it through a wringer. After rinsing wring loosely and hang out slightly heavy with water. If washed this way the article will not need much ironing.

To soften brown sugar when it has become lumpy stand it over a vessel filled with boiling water.

A quantity of quicklime put into a damp cuphoard for a few days will absorb the dampness. Part milk used in mixing bread im-proves both flavor and quality.

Tie a knot of red ribbon on scissors and keys if you want to find them

For very delicate fabric, which will not take starch, try sugar in the rinsing water.
